

Welcome to CorreiaSeminar.com!

Contributed by Sean Gardinier
Saturday, 25 August 2007
Last Updated Monday, 18 August 2008

Welcome to Our Online Academic Community!

CorreiaSeminar.com is an online academic portal to many tools and resources available only to students at Correia Middle School in San Diego, California.

As an online academic community, students will create learning together in the medium of current communication technology. This may include online forums, chatting, messaging, blogging, podcasting, posting electronic work samples, and collaborating using wikis.

Before you log in, it is very important that you and a parent or guardian have read, signed, and turned in the district and school network, internet, and computer use agreements. It is also important that you understand that this site is a professional academic community where all actions and content is moderated and archived by teachers.